About the program

The First Steps Infant & Toddler Fund invests in the first three years of life, when a child's brain develops faster than at any other time. Created in 2014 by a coalition of Flagstaff families and now supported by more than 200 donors, the fund has granted more than $3.4 million to early childhood programs across the region.

The 2027 Request for Proposals reflects the findings of the Foundation's 2026 Northern Arizona Infant Care Gap brief, which found one licensed infant care slot for every five infants in the four-county region. Proposals that add licensed infant and toddler care capacity in Apache and Navajo counties are especially encouraged.

First Steps uses a two-stage process: a short letter of inquiry, followed by an invited full proposal. Organizations may apply to First Steps every year, including in years when they also apply for a Community Impact Grant.
